Top expert's incredible warning:

WEREWOLVES BREEDING LIKE RABBITS

AMERICA has nearly 1,000 werewolves, and their population is growing by leaps and bounds, says a top scientist. He warns that we should all be on the lookout for these dangerous creatures.

. . . and they're turning up in record numbers all over the world!

By NELSON MANN
In Vienna

AIDS is killing off vampires left and right but the world's werewolf population is exploding!

That's the word from experts who say that incidences of lycanthropy, the rare genetic illness that turns men into wolves, have quadrupled since 1980 — when fewer than 2,000 people were afflicted.

"We don't know if there is a connection between the death of vampires and increase in werewolves or not," said Dr. Peter Braun, an Austrian archaeologist who has studied both vampires and werewolves since 1967.

"All we know for sure is that werewolves are turning up in record numbers all over the world.

"There are at least three times as many werewolves today as there were back in 1980 and the situation is steadily getting worse.

"There are 800 to 1,000 werewolves living in the United States alone."

Werewolves are easy to spot in their animal state but more often than not they appear to be normal and are virtually impossible to identify.

How to tell if your neighbor is a werewolf:

Ask yourself the following 10 questions prepared by Dr. Braun and a panel of experts. Then you'll know if anybody you live near or associate with is a werewolf.

● Does he smell like a mixture of stale hay and horse manure? Werewolves have extra glands that emit nasty smells.

● Does he have excess hair in odd places? Werewolves' arms, legs and bodies are extremely hairy, especially the backs of their hands and the tops of their feet.

● Does a neighbor's young boy seem unusually attracted to little girls by the age of 7 or 8?

Werewolves reach sexual maturity at that age — five years ahead of humans.

● Does he have an enormous appetite and large pets that often disappear and are replaced by other large pets? Werewolves like to sink their fangs into large animals.

● Do you hear strange howling, barking and moaning in the neighborhood when there is a full moon and no dogs around? If so, you're living close to a werewolf.

● Does his skin slowly change color? It takes only a few hours for a werewolf to change from human to animal form. The first sign is a gradual darkening of the skin.

● Does he wander around graveyards or turn up at the scene of fatal accidents? Corpses are a ready source of nourishment for young werewolves.

● Is his blood bluish red and his urine a deep purple? If you can treat yourself to be alone with a suspected werewolf in the daytime, try to find out without being too obvious.

Perhaps following him into the men's room is a good idea — but be careful — don't get too close!

● Does he suffer from unexplained injuries? When a werewolf is hurt in his animal form, the injuries remain when he turns back into a human.

TEARS! two-headed baby before the operation in which doctors removed one of his heads. The baby was born in February to a woman of Chinese origin.

Doctors remove one head from 2-headed baby

. . . and flipped a coin to decide which one!

By NELSON MANN
Correspondent

Doctors removed one of a two-headed baby's heads after they flipped a coin to decide which one would live!

"There was no other way to go about it," Dr. Georgy Sarin, who headed the surgical team, told newsmen in Sofia, Bulgaria.

"The boy's parents couldn't make a decision and the doctors involved in the case were divided, too. Both heads were well developed and had an equal chance of surviving.

"But it was imperative that we remove one of them as quickly as possible to give the boy a chance at being normal."

The dramatic coin flip to determine which of the baby's heads would be removed came less than a week after his birth in February and is unquestionably a medical first, said Dr. Sarin.

Neither the child — who is recovering nicely — nor his parents were identified in reports. His mother is of Chinese descent, reports said.

But a hospital press release indicated that the woman was exposed to radiation after the Soviet Union's Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster — which sent airborne fallout over much of Europe, including Bulgaria.

Doctors believe the radiation may have caused chromosome damage to the baby's cells.

Dr. Sarin said the baby had a spare heart. "The baby could have survived with two hands because both were fully developed and eager feeders," said Dr. Sarin. "But what kind of life could he have looked forward to?

hellish lives. People want nothing to do with them."

In a statement released through Dr. Sarin, the infant's parents said they agreed with the coin flip.

"We said there had been enough suffering in our family already," they said. "We didn't want this baby to lead a hellish life. We knew he wasn't. This was the only way we could give our baby a chance at a normal life."

Initial press reports from Bulgaria said that one of the baby's heads was malformed and would have to be removed.

Sarin angrily denies those reports, saying: "Both heads were fine.

"I wish one of them had been malformed," he added. "That would have made the decision to remove it a lot eas-

CHEAPSKATE CHURCHGOERS BLASTED

Furious preacher tells congregation to go to hell!

By LOUISE MURPHY
Special correspondent

A Bible-thumping preacher told his congregation to go to hell because the collection plate he passed around at the end of a windy sermon came back empty!

"I said it and I meant it," fumed the Rev. Paul David Jackson, 33. "I preached my heart out and how did they repay me? How did they repay the Lord? They didn't.

"My congregation decided to snub both of us at the collection plate like we were dogs."

The preacher's outburst stunned his congregation of 52 in east central Texas.

Witnesses said one woman actually fainted when he slammed the empty collection plate to the floor and shrieked:

"How dare you send this back empty? All of you — go to hell!"

"It was pretty bad," said Bill Granger, who has attended Rev. Jackson's tiny interdenominational church for the past 11 months. "The sermon was so long and boring that I had to fight to keep from falling asleep.

"When the collection plate finally came around I started to drop a few dollars in but changed my mind and let it pass.

"I guess everybody else had the same idea. I didn't see anybody put anything in it and by the time it got back to Rev. Jackson I knew there was going to be trouble.

"When he threw the plate down and told us to go to hell you could have heard a pin drop.

"The reverend stomped out of the church and spun the tires on his Lincoln getting out of the parking lot."

In fact, Rev. Jackson padlocked the doors of his small church two weeks ago and has not preached since.

"I might reopen my holy place if people show me they'll respect my church and sermons and put money in the collection plate," he said. "I'll be praying about it," he continued. "Sooner or later the Good Lord will give me some direction."

Oddly enough, the reverend should consider himself lucky. In a similar but unrelated incident last August, a small town preacher told his flock they were going to burn in hell — and they pulled him from the pulpit and beat the stuffing out of him before cops broke up the fight.

"That was one of the ugliest scenes I've been involved with in my 22 years on the force," said a patrolman who witnessed the incident.

"They were supposed to be gentle church people. But those folks roughed up their preacher pretty bad. It was bloody!"

FIRE AND BRIMSTONE preacher Paul David Jackson is fed up with his stingy congregation. He told them to go to the devil and he's locked them out of the church!

Rapist's new testicle costs taxpayers $5G

Pinhead prison officials replaced the testicle a convicted rapist lost to cancer with a new one — at taxpayer expense!

Louisiana State Prison official Steve Rader said the unnamed lunatic "fell through the cracks." Rader blasted the $5,000 transplant operation on a convicted goof.

Cons are eligible for surgery that is absolutely necessary, explained Rader.

But cosmetic surgery, including the replacement of a missing testicle, is forbidden.

"It was inappropriate," said Rader. "A cosmetic implant for any inmate is not necessary."

MAN MARRIES HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW

— and wife of 9 years weeps with joy!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Easygoing Colin Ratsfield created one of the loopiest love triangles in history when he divorced his wife of nine years — and married his mother-in-law!

But amazingly, there were no hurt feelings. Colin's ex-wife Kim wept tears of joy as she watched her starry-eyed mum say "I do" to the man she once loved.

"The situation took some getting used to, but Colin makes my mother very happy — and that makes me very happy," said tickled Kim, 25.

"Our two little boys are overjoyed, though.

"It's hard for them to figure out how their daddy can be their grandpa, too."

The screwball marriage-go-round began back in 1981 when love-struck schoolgirl Kim took Colin home to meet her mom and dad.

"Subconsciously, I think I've had a crush on Colin since that very first day," blushing bride Dawn told reporters in Gurnat, England.

"The minute he left the house, I told Kim, 'He's really good looking. I could go for him myself.'"

And delighted Dawn, 45, got her shot last year when Kim's marriage to 27-year-old Colin came crashing down after years of problems.

"As our marriage started falling apart, I spent more and more time talking to Dawn, crying on her shoulder," Dr. Casanova construction worker recalled.

"Gradually, we just fell in love. It was easy having an affair with her because if people saw us out together, they assumed it was just a man taking his mother-in-law to dinner," said Colin.

And by the time Kim and Colin were divorced, Dawn was ready to dump her breadwinner hubby Brian and set up housekeeping with her former son-in-law. "Kim was confused and upset at first, but we talked it out," said the matronly lady. "She even helped me choose my wedding dress and organize the reception.

"And now we're all very happy with the turn of events — all three of us."

A bad sign

The parents of a little girl who was crushed to death when an overhead road sign fell on the family car have won $8.25 million from the state of Florida.

They claimed the Interstate 95 sign that crashed through the windshield was improperly attached.

Lawyers for the state said a forceful wind tore the sign loose.

Brenda and Steve Smith earlier refused a $200,000 settlement in the death of their daughter, Leslie Nicole Smith, who was 3 when she died near West Palm Beach.

Are you a good lover? Do you really have what it takes to keep your mate's passion alive even after years of marriage?

To find out if you have that elusive quality that keeps your lover coming back for more, take the following simple quiz. Remember, your first quick reaction is usually the most revealing.

1. At a party you flirt with someone else: a. to make your lover a little jealous, b. just because you enjoy the company of others, c. to get back at your partner's flirtations.

2. When you are angry you: a. try to talk about it; b. keep it inside; c. explode.

3. You live with your mate for: a. love; b. you hate to be alone; c. convenience.

4. You remember what your lover's favorite foods are: a. always; b. sometimes; c. never.

5. If your partner is watching a television program you don't like, you: a. snuggle up to him; b. do something else; c. go to sleep.

6. If your lover gives you a compliment, you: a. say how much it means to you; b. say thank you; c. take it for granted.

7. When was the last time you told your partner "I love you"? a. today, b. recently, c. not in a long time.

8. If you think your partner is cheating, you: a. bring it out in the open, b. ignore it, c. kick your mate out of the house.

9. On your birthday, your mate gives you a sexy nightgown or bikini underwear. Do you: a. model it; b. hide it; c. return it.

10. Do you surprise your mate with love notes, romantic dinners or something reminiscent of a honeymoon? a. often; b. sometimes; c. never.

11. If you're going out for the evening, who chooses the entertainment? a. both choose, b. your mate chooses, c. you choose.

12. Do the two of you enjoy childlike activities like going to an amusement park or a playground? a. often; b. sometimes; c. never.

13. My mate and I openly discuss each other's needs: a. always; b. sometimes; c. never.

14. Since you met your mate, your appearance has: a. improved; b. stayed the same; c. gotten worse.

15. I am sensitive to my partner's needs: a. almost always, b. sometimes, c. never.

Scoring

Give yourself three points for every "a" answer, two points for every "b" answer and one point for every "c" answer.

Analysis

38-45 points: You're an excellent lover. You're one of the select few who have that special something that will keep your mate interested no matter what your age.

28-37 points: Your better-than-average score shows you're striving to be a splendid mate lover. Perhaps you're too shy or don't know how to show your mate how much you really care. But with time, your warmth will totally reassure your partner.

22-27 points: You're going to have to work harder at being a good lover. Try becoming aware of a friend in your mate first. Maybe after you're able to open up to them, the warmth and passion will follow.

18-21 points: This is virtually a no-love score. You need to work on improving your own self-image before you can build a lasting relationship with anyone else.

GIRL'S SONG PULLS MOM OUT OF COMA

Her yearlong bedside vigil pays off!

Coma victim Christine Gamble lay unconscious for 14 heartbreaking months and doctors feared she would never walk or talk again — till the sound of her little girl's singing suddenly brought her back to life!

By JOE BERGER

"This is truly a miracle, a blessing from heaven," gushed Christine's ecstatic husband Harry.

"I've always heard that love can work wonders, and it was the love of our darling daughter that brought Christine back to us.

"The doctors gave up hope, but little Lucy never did."

Tragic Christine's life was shattered late in 1988 when she entered the hospital for ulcer surgery and suffered a heart attack on the operating table.

When the hapless housewife lapsed into a coma, Lucy, 8, began a heartrelated vigil of love at her mum's bedside.

"For more than a year, Lucy never went to parties, never went out to play like other little girls," her devoted dad told reporters in Emsworth, England.

"She rushed straight from school to the hospital to be with her mother. Every night she spent hours hugging her and kissing her and talking to her, even though it broke her heart to see poor Christine lying there like that.

"Lucy was always putting on a happy face around her mother — and afterward she would go home and cry her eyes out."

Then one night, the sad-eyed schoolgirl took her unconscious mom's head and started quietly singing to her. Suddenly Christine, 36, opened her eyes and tried to sing along.

"Lucy and Christine liked to sing together when Christine was well, and when she heard Lucy singing it snapped her right out of it," said her happy hubby.

"Doctors say they never know what might bring a coma victim back to life. This time it was the love — and the singing — of a very brave little girl."

MIRACULOUS MUSIC: Lucy Gamble, 8, sang her mother Christine out of a 14-month-long coma.

Engineer turns hero

Train engineer Giancarlo Tondo was knocked out cold when a hoodlum tossed a brick through the window of his locomotive — but he woke up just in time to save the lives of his passengers.

With blood spurting from a gash in his head, Tondo managed to stop the train moments before it plowed into another crowded train at a crossing outside of Milan, Italy.

"If he'd come to 30 seconds later, dozens of passengers could have died," said a government investigator.

UFOS AND THE SPACE BROTHERS WANT YOU TO SURVIVE!

DOOMSDAY

Psychics, spiritual leaders, scientists and UFO contactees all agree that we are living in what has been called the END TIMES.

- The foundation of our civilization is about to crumble.
- The present world as we know it is going to be destroyed.
- Psychic spiritual and "other-worldly" forces are about to take over.

THE TRUTH CAN NOW BE TOLD

An in depth study recently conducted by a highly qualified UFO researcher indicates drastic changes in our daily life as well as in the shape and construction of our very planet, are imminent. This information has been channeled in at least 20 of the most highly respected contactees from many advanced beings who reside on other planets and in other dimensions. Unanimously, they agree that a global catastrophe will soon sweep over the nation as well as the rest of the world.

According to the SPACE BROTHERS whom they are in contact with time is running out. We are being told the Earth is rapidly entering the realm — AND FINAL! — hour for humankind. All indications are that a "time bomb of destruction" is about to go off making the planet or civilization as we have come to accept it. The Book of Revelations and Nostradamus's readiness as Armageddon unfolds are given.

There are those who say a THIRD WORLD WAR is on the immediate horizon, that an ecological imbalance is now taking place, and a shifting of the North and South Poles is due, which would tilt the earth out of its present orbit and send it hurtling toward the sun.

YOU CAN BE SAVED!

While plan chaos will take place all around us, all of those who have received this highly advanced, truly prophetic warning have said that the "Chosen Ones" who "are ready" will be saved and taken off the planet just in the nick of time.

Our special, fully illustrated report, a 90,000 word book titled PSYCHIC & UFO REVELATIONS IN THE LAST DAYS, is the most comprehensive volume ever put together on the subject. There is no other work like it as the facts has been inspired from above. There are some of the important things you will learn — things you will NEED to know in order to make the transition from this physical dimension into a higher realm.

- Specific data on land changes. Find out which States will be geographically altered and the "safe" places to go to be out of immediate danger.
- A time table indicating when these events will begin to take place and the order in which they will occur.
- Exact "signs" and "warnings" to watch for which will indicate that only months are left.

- Many unusual objects — "spaceships" — you will need in order to survive, and where to obtain them.
- The day you will vanish from this planet — a cosmic evacuation by space ship will take place in which hundreds of flying saucers will come down out of the sky and "lift off" the earthly. What are your chances of being saved, and what can you do to make certain you are among "the chosen."

Some of those who have contributed to this valuable reference include Gene Ayers and Frances Stalper; Space Observer Helen Wort; the spiritual group Mark Age, UFO communicator Jane Allyson; Parapsychologist Warren Fremming; and the space being known as Ashtar.

If you have even a slight interest in UFOs you will want to order this book. This is not just another title filled with wild stories, but this volume actually presents useful data which could change your life and help you to survive DOOMSDAY!

PSYCHIC & UFO REVELATIONS IN THE LAST DAYS is available by ordering now. Send for a copy right away and we will include a subscription to our sensational UFO REVIEW Magazine, as well as a special meditation you can use in order to establish contact for yourself with these highly advanced alien beings — the space brothers — who are watching over Earth.

CARRY A BEAUTIFUL SYMBOL OF THE NEW AGE
SPREAD THE WORD — JOIN THE LEGIONS OF LIGHT

Ashtar and the "Space Brothers" have repeatedly said that it is time we New Agers share our belief in the existence of more advanced life in space. As a special memento to coincide with the release of this important volume we are offering for a limited time only a beautiful medallion depicting the symbol of the New World Order — a picture with a flying saucer flying over it (see above illustration). This medallion can be worn, carried in your pocket or used as a key chain. Other "believers" will be able to spot you at a distance and the Space Brothers may even be able to pick up telepathically the fact that you have this in your possession. This medallion is not available anywhere else and is offered only to those who order a copy of this exciting new book that is crammed full of predictions for the LAST DAYS and thrilling tales about a wonderful future to come.

After losing his son to killer drug . . .

Angry dad poisons 2 tons of COCAINE

. . . and it's coming to America!

SECRET IDENTITY: This headed atom is being held by Colombian authorities — for poisoning drugs!

By MICKEY McGUIRE
in Cartagena, Colombia

It took a grief-stricken father 16 harrowing months to do it, but he finally avenged the drug overdose death of his teenage son — by lacing a two-ton shipment of cocaine with rat poison!

And authorities fear the poisoned cocaine may be in the hands of drug dealers supplying pushers in America!

The father, a U.S. citizen, has not been identified to protect him and his wife. He isn't charged with any crime, but is being held in "protective custody" by Colombian police.

"He is under very tight security here in Bogota," a Colombian drug agent confirmed. "If the people who made the shipment learn his identity, he and his wife are as good as dead."

According to the undercover agent, himself a figure in Colombia's all-out war against the powerful drug cartels, the 46-year-old father admitted what he had done two weeks after the poisoned dope had been shipped.

"He revealed the destination of the shipment," the agent said. "But two weeks had already passed. There was no way we could have intercepted it.

"He told us his 17-year-old son had become hooked on cocaine when he was 12. He said the boy had been in treatment centers twice, but still couldn't kick the habit. Then the father came home from work one day and found the boy lying dead in his bedroom. The boy had died of an overdose of cocaine.

"The father said he lost all interest in life. The boy had been their only child. His wife was so devastated she tried to kill herself with poison.

"That's when he got the idea to get back at the scum who sold his son the dope. He went insane with grief. He took all his money out of the bank, got a second mortgage on his house and went to Key West, Fla. He said he bought a fast boat, then hung around the dirty waterfront bars letting it be known that he and his boat were for hire — for any job.

"He made several small-load runs enough to give him experience in the drug routes from South America to Florida.

"Then he said he was hired to take another load bigger than has to Cartagena. All he had to do was bring it here.

"The boat would be loaded with cocaine and another captain would take the boat to America. He was supposed to fly back to Miami. After the cocaine was loaded on the boat, the father spent the entire day opening the plastic containers and dusting in large amounts of arsenic rat poison.

"That night, the boat left with a two-ton cargo of cocaine with enough poison in it to wipe out an entire army."

The agent said the father will be held long enough for cocaine-poisoning deaths to surface. Then charges may be filed against him.

"But even that is doubtful," the agent admitted. "It would be almost impossible to link him directly with any one shipment. But the father doesn't care what happens to him. As far as he's concerned, his life ended when his son died. He told me, 'I can go to my grave in peace. My son's death has been avenged.'

"The horrifying fact is, if that poisoned cocaine is sold on American streets, a lot of unfortunate junkies will go to their graves as well."

Battling the bulge brings on the blues!

Dieting is depressing — so depressing you're better off not trying to lose weight at all, new research shows.

A study of 21 women who dieted for six weeks found that the dieters were tortured by depression, obsessions with food and guilt over eating. And after all that time the subjects lost an average of only four pounds each.

According to Jane Ogden, a well-respected European psychiatrist, the women in the study felt their eating was out of control when their diets were over. "Don't diet," says Mrs. Ogden. "It won't do you any good!"

Brazen bandit steals fire truck while firemen battle blaze

By SYLVIA CROSSLAND

While firemen were investigating an apartment building blaze, a brazen thief sneaked up in their fire truck and stole it.

By using the emergency radio to keep track of the police broadcast for him, the cunning crook was able to elude capture.

"Whoever had the truck listened to our every move," said Buckley, W. Va., Fire Captain David Tolliver. "He abandoned the truck about a mile from where he stole and vehicle."

The fire was almost extinguished when firemen arrived at the scene.

"It was a dangerous fire [illegible] that involved a pile of rags and wood," said Capt. Tolliver.

"There's a good chance the man who set the fire and the man who stole the truck are one and the same, but we haven't caught anyone," said Capt. Tolliver.

He said the truck was parked on front of the apartment next to a police cruiser when it was swiped.

"Two firemen were inside with a police officer getting information.

"Who would have thought someone would have the nerve to steal the truck," said Capt. Tolliver. "That took a whole lot of guts."

NEW STUDY: Success makes people sick

Getting a promotion or finding a sweetheart can be very stressful — and can even make you sick.

"If you think of yourself as a loser, and all of a sudden you have good fortune, it forces you to rethink some key aspects of who you are," said researcher Jonathan Brown.

For students with low self-esteem, the more positive events they recorded, the more colds, sore throats, sinus infections and other ailments they reported, said Brown of the University of Washington.

DOCTORS WANT TO FREEZE PRINCESS DI'S HEAD

— to study her royal noodle!

Off with his head! Scientists say Princess Diana's mind is a terrible thing to waste.

Britain's cutie-pie Princess Di tells everybody she's dumber than dirt, but top docs plan to put her muddled mind to use when she dies — by freezing her head and using her brain for research!

"We have a special shelf in our freezer for your head and nobody else's," Professor Peter Jenner told dumbfounded Di as she toured Kings Hospital in London.

The rattled royal protested, saying she's a thickheaded high school dropout whose noodle would be of little use to anyone.

"I've got a brain the size of a pea," Di instead. "I can't imagine why you would want it."

But Professor Jenner said researchers can't wait to get their hands on the Princess' royal noggin.

"Despite what Diana might say about herself, she's a very special lady with a very special mind," the scientist told reporters.

"Of course, we don't wish her any harm and we hope she lives a long and rewarding life.

"But since she does, we'd love to add her head to our collection." — London Daily Star

Jurors polarized after murder conviction is overturned

Just give me five minutes with the punk who killed my sister!

by JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

Fighting mad Steve Zellers lies awake nights thinking what he would like to do to the man convicted of killing his sister — the man who was later freed on a technicality.

Eddie Cap

"I would like to see him fry in the electric chair. I would gladly pull the switch," Zellers told The NEWS.

A jury in Orlando found Eddie Cap guilty of murder in the 1974 death of pretty Sharon Zellers, 18, who was brutally beaten to death and stuffed in a sewer.

A judge sentenced Cap, 34, to die in the electric chair. Cap watched handed her just until Florida's Supreme Court said the jury didn't have enough evidence to convict him. They said he should be freed immediately.

"I just want those people on the Supreme Court and the people of Florida to be aware that Cap was convicted in the Army in April," said Zellers.

"The stuffed shirt Supreme Court judges have no regard for human life."

At least two jurors who voted to convict Cap at his Orlando trial are incensed with the higher court's action.

"Are we all crazy?" asked juror Nancy D'Aurora.

"The judge, the experts, the jury, the prosecutor [who] I don't think so."

"I feel your frivolous finding is all wrong, and I am outraged at your handling of this case," she wrote in a letter to the state Supreme Court.

Juror Carol Duckworth says she'll never serve on another criminal jury. "Why not take these cases directly to the Supreme Court? Why bother with us?" she asked.

Cap will soon be taken back to California to finish a sentence on an earlier conviction for brutally assaulting two young women there in 1965.

It was his arrest in those cases that brought charges in Florida in the murder of Sharon Zellers.

"He was a suspect in my sister's murder back in '74, but police didn't have enough evidence then to charge him," said Zellers.

With credit for time already served, Cap should be freed in California by August. "I doubt he will return to Florida, but he might," said Zellers. "Those judges made a bad mistake in freeing this guy."

"His kind isn't welcome in Florida.

"We can't have people like him walking the streets along with decent folks.

"I'd like to be locked up in a room with him for five minutes," said Zellers. "I'd like to

BEER DRINKERS, UNITE!

ED ANGER'S MY AMERICA

Worrywart warning labels spoiling our brew

I'm so mad I could ___ open a ___ of beer with my tongue over those stupid new medical warning labels ___ ___ favorite brew.

If you haven't seen 'em yet, fellow beer drinkers, you sure as hell will soon enough on oatmeal if they — beer, by God!

These same wimpy could are now stick- liberals who would ing it to a good old stick warning labels American institution

Let's face it. If these big government worrywarts had their way, all food would be stamped WARNING: EAT THIS AND YOU'LL GET FAT OR DIE.

Great. If you're stupid enough to believe that you deserve to starve to death.

But back to the specific topic at hand:

There's not even universal agreement on a beer label that's OK to eat or pork and beans for instance.

But we don't need some universal gang warning label on there and a nice beer can reading for everybody.

And that makes me pretty doggone mad.

I drink at least a case of beer a week and have for over 30 years. And the health care bodies say I'm healthier as a horse.

If beer was bad for you, then Ah- ne hell is much truth in such great slogans?

Being on beer is good for you. That's why. All those guys who worked for the marijuana labels do beer, too.

Those pot peddlers should be stopped. If they can get away with putting a warning label on beer, they can do it on pot.

Then we can get down to the serious business of getting rid of the rest of the wimpy warning labels that are spoiling our fun.

Let's start with the ones on cigarettes and booze.

Then we can get down to the serious business of getting rid of the rest of the wimpy warning labels that are spoiling our fun.

Let's start with the ones on cigarettes and booze.

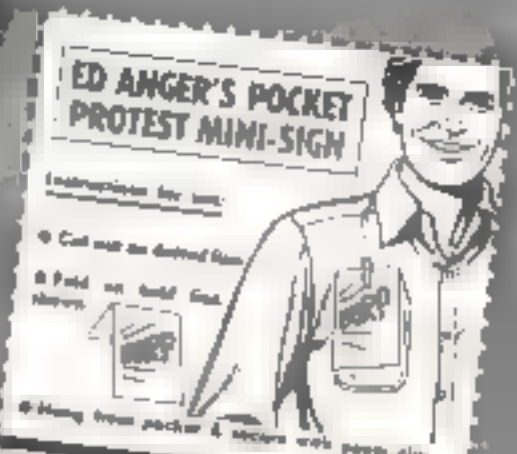
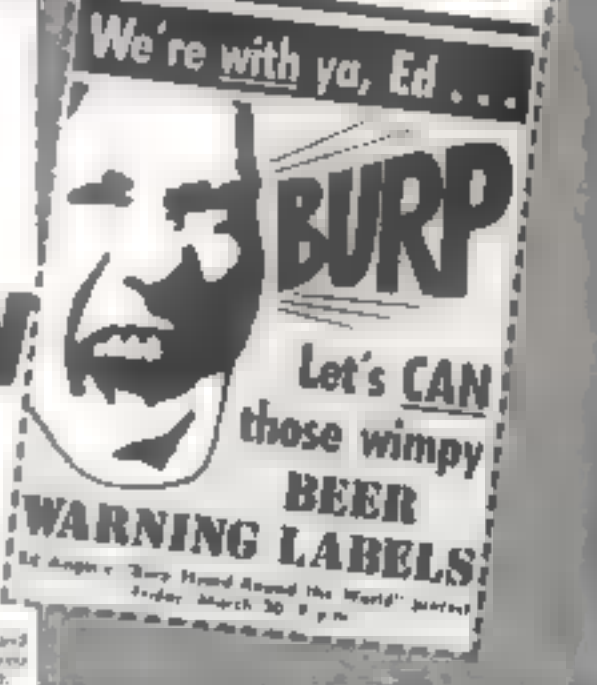
IT'S getting so you can't even have a beer anymore without some government agency spoiling your fun — with a warning label.





Watch this message with pride as you burp your heart out Friday March 30 at 9 p.m. It'll get you lots of support.

and many Americans do stop drinking good healthy beer in stopping them to death, they'll have more patients to their heavy hands warning label.

On Friday night March 30, at precisely 9 p.m., all of us gets down at the Iron Horse Bar and Grille are going to let out one helluva collective burp.

And we'll like to hear the same from you and the rest all across this great land of ours.

BABY CRIES IN HIGH "C"

. . . and busts every glass in the house!

By PETER INKAD
Special Correspondent

Six-month-old Rick Berry has broken virtually every glass in his mother's house because he cries like an opera singer — in high C!

"When Ricky cuts loose the glasses pop like they did on that old Memorex tape commercial with Ella Fitzgerald," said Ellen Berry, the infant's 32-year-old mother.

"It sounds comical but it's not all that funny to me. I'm having to go out and buy plastic cups and tumblers so they won't shatter on me," said the perplexed mom.

Mrs. Berry said her baby son's cries began to disturb [illegible] a few months after she brought him home from a New York hospital.

"They seemed to be very high pitched but I didn't think all that much about it until he started screaming and a glass thermometer I was holding popped and shattered," said the woman.

"A few days later I was sipping a Coke from a glass. When Ricky started crying it broke, too.

"When a little glass dog shattered on a shelf I put two and two together and began to suspect that his crying had something to do with it.

"But it seemed so improbable that I didn't mention it to anyone until half the glassware in my house was gone," she said.

Mrs. Berry consulted a doctor who told her the baby was crying in ear- and glass-shattering high C.

He advised the youngster to put her remaining glassware in storage for a few months until the baby's voice deepens.

"High C' is apparently a very hard note to hit and it's just a fluke that Ricky's cries make it," said Mrs. Berry.

"The doctor assures me that his voice will deepen as he gets a little older and the problem will disappear. I only hope that will happen soon."

Meanwhile Mrs. Berry is recording little Ricky's cries so the child can hear them when he grows up.

"I don't think he'd believe me otherwise," she said.

MUSIC When Berry holds her ear as son Rick hits out an ear-splitting — and glass-breaking — scream.

Now all we can do is wait for his voice to get deeper, says mom

Mailman [redacted] 5-year-old's life . . .

Boy's hand is blown off AND he's attacked by pit bull!

By MARTHA ATKINS

In a bizarre accident, a 6-year-old boy had his left hand blown off by a giant firecracker — and was attacked by his pet pit bull!

The child would have died [illegible] to death if it were not for quick and [illegible] the quick thinking of mailman [illegible] severely injured Tony Rocket [illegible] on the small boy's arm to stop the flow of blood.

"He most definitely saved the boy's life," said Sgt. Jerry Shanahan of the Minneapolis, Minn. Police Department. "His would have bled to death if it weren't for him."

The postman [illegible] had been playing alone in an upstairs bedroom of his home when he [illegible] in the face of a large rocket like the ones shot off at Fourth of July fireworks celebrations.

It blew up while he was holding it — taking his hand off at the explosion.

He was then attacked by his pet pit bull because it was trained to attack at the sound of gunfire. The helpless boy was severely bitten on the thigh and on the face before the dog released him and slunk away.

"He's lucky home drove by when he did," said Sgt. Shanahan.

The fate of the dog is still unknown. Police quarantined the pit bull until it is decided whether or not it will be destroyed.

"The father says he wants it destroyed but the mother does not," said Sgt. Shanahan. "We don't know what's going to happen yet."

Fat cats pay 25 bucks for a bowl of water and stones

FANCY-SCHMANCY SOUP IS MADE FROM ROCKS!

By DICKIE BRANCH
Correspondent

Rich and famous people all over the world are paying top dollar for rock soup — a mixture of water and stones from exotic places that tastes like wet dirt!

Bowls of the soup are selling for America as much as $25 a pop in the swankiest restaurants in Europe and North America.

Prices are expected to go even higher as demand increases and vendors budget more and more money to find the rarest waters and rocks on earth.

"Rock soup is the fashion food of the 90s," declared Nathan Stone, who sells rock soup in his Chicago restaurant.

"It is very expensive but people with money don't seem to mind paying the price.

"It's very chic to be seen sipping it. Some people think it's very good.

"I sometimes actually smell my soup and savor the tasty like it's fine wine.

They shake the bowls and taste and try to figure out where the stones and water came from.

Nobody knows who dreamed up the idea of cooking rock soup but it appeared on menus in fine restaurants across the world and became an overnight sensation.

Anybody could make the stuff with water from their yard and water from the tap.

But the high-priced concoctions are made with expensive imported waters and stones from some of the farthest reaches of the globe.

Fiona's restaurant in Paris has acquired a stunning list of the rarest waters and stones for a taste of the nation's most famous rock soup.

Diners Hours (Others) refuses to say where the water and stones come from.

OUCH! shows seem to have lost their appetites over the cooking trend of the 1990s — a thin soup made from water and rocks.

Human pack rats are sickos, says shrink

Human pack rats who have every single thing they get their hands on are sick!

That's the word from a psychologist who says people hoard possessions to relieve anxiety and build self-esteem just as alcoholics drink to escape turmoil in their lives.

"Pack rats feel distressed over throwing things away," said Lynda Wagener, psychology professor at California State University in San Bernardino.

"It becomes a problem when it has a destructive impact on the pack rat himself or the people he lives with."

The expert said that collecting things fills the pack rat's deep-rooted need for security, closeness and comfort.

For pack rats, she added, "things can represent people."

Is your kid like Dennis the Menace?

. . . then he was fathered by Satan, says nutty professor

By EDGAR SCHULTZ

Screwball psychologist Gerhard Dunkmann left 580 terrified moms gasping in horror — by convincing the shaken ladies their kids were fathered by the devil!

The dinghat she sent shock waves through a crowded lecture hall when he informed the spellbound moms that any tot who eats dirt, pitches temper tantrums or makes faces at his parents is a child of Satan.

"We were all going crazy inside, because this guy was supposed to be an expert on these things — and he was telling us our kids were all demons from hell," frantic Frenda Brandt recalled.

"What did that make our husbands — the devil himself? We were all petrified."

Goofy Gerhard, hailing himself as "the world's foremost authority on child-rearing and the supernatural," charged the gullible gals $10 apiece to hear his dire dish lecture at a Frankfurt, West Germany, hotel.

Then the crackpot professor scared the pitchy mothers out of their wits by informing them their kids had been tampered by Satan if they:

- Liked chicken.
- Refused to eat cauliflower or broccoli.
- Made faces at their parents.
- Ate dirt or mud.
- Turned away from their plates when they weren't hungry.
- Cried after midnight.
- Seemed attracted to open doors, walls or flags.
- Stamped their feet when they were angry.

"These are things that apply to most all little kids, but most of us were young first-time mothers and didn't realize that," Mrs. Brandt, 31, later told reporters.

Gerhard's twenty-hour lecture came to light when a number of frightened moms phoned a local help hot line asking what they should do about their naughty toddlers.

"They were so confused they hadn't even talked it over with their husbands — because they didn't know if he'd be on their side or Satan's," said hot line supervisor Maria Frank.

Eventually, cops were called in and discovered that Dunkmann, 41, is a former Swiss college prof who'd been rejected when his pain-ignored thesis resulted in uproar on campus.

"He was a little crazy, so he did what all crazy people do — he hit the lecture circuit," said police detective Dieter Schmidt. "By the time we were called in, he was long gone — and we have no idea where he is now."

CRACKPOT professor claims kids who eat dirt, like cookies and have temper tantrums are children of the devil.

My flea-pouring neighbor is driving me up the wall

Dear Dotti: Please help me before I go insane! I live in an apartment building and my upstairs neighbor is a real b-i-t-c-h. Every night when she comes home from work she makes noise from 4:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

I can't even watch TV in my living room because she's stomping around and talking loud and slamming doors so hard my apartment shakes. I asked her to quit it but she just laughed in my face. Even our landlord says he can't help.

Please give me some advice, Dotti. What can I do? — Going Crazy in New York

Dear Going Nuts! Why don't you buy yourself one of those big plastic blister rollers and then crush it up as much as your noisy upstairs neighbor puts up with? That's what I did when I had the same problem and believe me, my neighbor got the message fast!

I want to lose my virginity

Dear Dotti: You're the only person who can help me. I'm a 19-year-old woman who wants to try sex for the first time. Is this unusual? Should I buy a condom and try it? — Dreaming in Prison

Dear Dreaming: It's not unusual for a young woman to fantasize about sex. But to be perfectly frank, I think it's both dangerous and foolhardy to go looking for a one-night stand on the age of AIDS. Do yourself a favor and wait until you get married to try sex. You've waited 23 years. A few more won't hurt!

Stupid rule wars are a big fizzle

Dear Dotti: Whenever I go to a restaurant and ask for a Coke the waitress always asks: "We don't have Coke — is Pepsi O.K.? Or I'll go to another restaurant and ask for a Pepsi the waitress says, "We don't have Pepsi — what about Coke?" I know it sounds stupid but this happens every time I eat out and it's driving me up a wall.

I even tried asking for "reds" but the parks still want to know if Pepsi or Coke will do. One place I went actually served beer and turned me in to the police! What do you think about all this, Dotti? — Thirsty in Champaign

Dear Thirsty: I agree that these stupid rule wars are a bunch of crap. If you want to avoid the aggravation do what I do — order iced tea.

Toilet paper for sale, 50 . . .

Dear Dotti: I enjoy reading Weekly World News every week and especially look forward to your column. Now I'm looking to you for some advice.

The other day I went to a party at a girl's house. I went to her rest room only to find out the last sheet there was no toilet paper. The only thing in the can was a small towel and that's exactly what I did. Now I'm wondering if I did the right thing. — Disturbed in Tampa

Dear Disturbed: Of course you did the right thing. It's the responsibility of the hostess to check up on toilet paper. NO EXCUSE she throws a party. And if she doesn't, anything that happens to her tough luck!

I don't believe this is your photo, Dotti!

Dear Dotti: There's simply no way that the picture that appears with this advice column every week is really you. I'm willing to bet every penny I have that you actually weigh 200 pounds, are covered with warts and have a hideous complexion. — Gambler in Fayetteville

Dear Gambler: Send your personal check or money order to me in care of The Inquirer. That's my picture, buster — you lose!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Send mail to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462

Dear Farm Girl in Lincoln: Why don't you do the world a big favor and hang yourself today?

Ask the Countess

What were my dear mother's last words?

Dear Countess: Just before my comatose mother died on January 13, she opened her eyes and started to say something but my sister and I couldn't make out what she was trying to tell us.

And even though she had been in a coma for weeks, we had also been talking to her and would like to know if she could hear us. Please help, Countess. Any clue you can give us will be appreciated. — Sad in South Dakota

Dear Sad: You'd be happy to hear that your dear mother was aware of everything you and your sister said to her on the eve before the end.

At the moment of her death she was trying to say that she knew you very much and deeply appreciated your visit. She was quite comfortable with her passing.

Eat-and-run thief has been arrested 45 times for not paying her restaurant bill!

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

When Lavern Miller says she has to eat and run, she really means it — just ask dozens of restaurants who've been stuck with her food tab.

Miller, 26, was recently arrested for the 45th time for running up a restaurant bill and refusing to pay.

"She likes to eat. She just doesn't like to pay for what she eats," said Kathryn Culver, chief assistant prosecutor in Akron, Ohio.

The hungry young woman is accused of eating and drinking $48.25 worth at Mr. Bitter's restaurant and bar in downtown Akron.

She is charged with theft previous, a felony meaning she has been convicted previously on a theft charge. If convicted, she could be imprisoned for up to 18 months and fined $2,500.

Why does she do it?

"I can't figure it out," said prosecutor Culver. "We've asked her that in court many times and she doesn't seem to know, either.

"She's going to jail for doing it. She's going to prison for doing it. But she keeps on doing it," said the prosecutor.

Miss Miller told a judge she usually pays for what she eats in restaurants until she runs out of money, said Miss Culver.

More than a dozen establishments in Akron have ordered their employees not to serve Miss Miller. "I understand her picture is on the wall in some of them," said prosecutor

The shocking truth about America's schoolkids

American kids are two-faced little brats who say they respect their parents and love God but wouldn't think twice about cheating on a test or hopping into bed with someone before marriage!

The poll of 3,000 students from 4th to 12th grades was conducted by the Girl Scouts of America. Among the findings:

- 85 percent of high school students say they would cheat on an important exam.
- 31 percent say they would be willing to go "far beyond kissing" on their third date.
- 94 percent say their parents are the "special adults" in their lives.

her high say they would have sex with whoever they love.

Greedy parents murder son in insurance double-cross!

Scheming Chris Morris plotted to kill his ex-wife for her insurance money but wound up dead himself — when his own parents gunned him down in a shocking double-cross, cops say.

Police say gloppy-grabbing Theron Morris, 70, and his 68-year-old wife Lola helped work $70,000 insurance policies on their son to collect on. "This is beyond the bizarre."

EVIL. Theron Morris, 70, and his wife Lola, 68, gunned down their son Chris, 43, say authorities in Pompano Beach, Fla.

. . . say cops

and Broward County, Fla., Sheriff Nick Navarro. "When I was reading the details of this case, I thought I was reading the script for a movie."

Originally, conspiring Chris, 43, and his parents planned to murder Chris' former wife and her young daughter to get their hands on the wife's insurance money, cops say.

But when the plotters discovered that the ex-wife's whereabouts had lapsed, Chris' parents decided to keep him off screen.

Detectives said Theron Morris hoaxed his son's hands with tape while Chris' roommate, 36-year-old Martin Hector, held him at gunpoint outside the parents' home in Pompano Beach.

When Chris broke free and tried to make a run for it, Hector shot him three times, police said.

Hector and Morris then drove the wounded man to nearby Coconut Creek while the victim's mom followed in a getaway car. There, Chris was shot three more times and left to die.

Cops say Hector and the greedy parents have all confessed and been charged with first-degree murder.

But in still another bizarre twist, police say greed may not have been the only motive — that revenge may also have played a part.

Hector told investigators the duplicitous parents were angry because Chris had sold them a bag of phony crack cocaine for $1,000.

"They had lost a lot of money and they were mad about it," said sheriff's spokesman Al Gordon.

"The cocaine was the catalyst. They were going to sell it."

Man's mind-boggling rescue off Florida's coast

Blubbery sea creature saves tourist's life!

Drowning boater towed to shore — by gentle manatee

An Ohio salesman was drowning when one of the [redacted] sea creatures known to man — a manatee — swam up under his belly and gave him a ride to shore!

By SCOTTY PAUL

The 32-year-old man was zipping along a waterway on Florida's west coast when his 22-foot outboard slammed into a submerged navigation light.

"I was knocked forward by the impact and struck my head on the side of the boat. It went airborne and flipped over," said the plumbing supply salesman of his vacation drama in Florida.

The man, who asked not to be identified, said he was barely conscious when he hit the water. "I was treading water trying to keep from going under because I wasn't wearing a life jacket," he said.

"Everything was getting blurry . . . I was on the verge of passing out. Then I felt something underneath me, nudging me."

The terrified tourist said a huge creature "literally kept me from going underwater. I thought it was a shark. There I realized it was a manatee. I had seen a few of them earlier out of the boat channel," he said.

"As God is my witness that manatee kept me from drowning. I wrapped my arms around its neck and it instinctively swam to shore."

Dazed and bleeding, the man said the slow-moving mammal swam under him all the way to [redacted] and [redacted] "would swim up under me so that I wouldn't drown," he said. "It was absolutely incredible. I couldn't believe my eyes."

The fisherboys were about 50 yards away when the manatee left him in tall grass near the shore. "They saw the manatee swim away from me," he said.

"They didn't realize the manatee had actually rescued and nudged me almost 200 feet to shore and they were as shocked as me when I told them."

The fishermen gave the shaken man a ride back to the dock where he had launched his boat. He told other boaters about his bizarre rescue.

"I had never seen one of those creatures until I came to Florida," the man said. "I understand they get cut up pretty bad by boat propellers.

"I'm going to be more careful of them from now on when I'm flying along in my outboard. Because one of them saved my life."

Effect is felt on the full moon.

Top scientists confirm: Full moon makes folks loony!

SARA KEMPER

It's true. People really do go off the deep end during the full moon, experts say.

"Studies show abnormal behavior increases during the time of the full moon, and the new moon as well," observes Dr. Donald Templer, a professor of psychology.

Dr Templer has found that the full and new moons coincide with a dramatic increase in suicide attempts, phone calls to psychiatrists and crisis lines by troubled people and admissions to psychiatric hospitals.

Said Dr. Carolyn Robinson, a clinical psychologist:

"The idea that people act strange around the time of the full moon is not just a folk belief. In a study in which I was involved, we analyzed the incidence of homicides in the Miami, Fla., and Cleveland, Ohio, areas over a 13-year period.

"In the Miami area we found there were significantly more homicides around the full moon and the new moon than for the rest of the month. Our results for the Cleveland area were very close to the Miami pattern."

Dr. Elizabeth Miller, a clinical psychologist professor of psychology, assisted the police in a study she was involved in.

"We found that rape, robbery and assault, burglary, larceny and theft, auto theft, offenses against family and children, drunkenness and disorderly conduct-related disturbances were frequently during the full moon phase than at other times."

Dead dog taken on vacation

An attractive pet owner kept her promise and took her beloved pooch with her on vacation -- even though he was dead.

The unidentified woman was sitting in a plane in New York City's crowded airport with a plastic bag that contained the cremated ashes.

"I promised him I would take him to New York and Las Vegas. He kept my words. I suppose he knew for Vegas," she said.

Fed-up homeowner raises heap big stink

RALPH Armstrong hopes his huge horse manure wall will send a strong message to home builders' ranks.

Man builds 6-ft. high wall . . . with horse manure!

By DICK DONOVAN

Retired fireman Ralph Armstrong got a bit hot under the collar when a developer failed to build a promised noise barrier. So he built one of his own — with four tons of horse manure!

That stinking, eye-watering mound of doubtin dung stands six feet high and stretches 150 feet to block out the constant din and dust rising from a subdivision construction site across from Armstrong's once-peaceful retirement nest.

While the barrier is helping Armstrong keep a grip on his sanity the chirping, gagging stench of four tons of manure is making life a living hell for construction workers.

"I think the manure will be proving my message across," Armstrong said with a wicked smile.

"No more than a year ago I could look out across the field and see rural posts and mallard ducks and the beauty of the countryside," the former San Francisco Fire-man explained. "Now, growth has overwhelmed the neighborhood.

"All I want is some protection from the noise and dust. They're building hundreds of homes over there. What's our little home?" The angry homeowner said Sonoma County officials and the developer Cal-Prop, agreed to erect a noise and dust barrier between the neighborhood of ranch-style homes and the construction site.

But that was back in May 1988, Armstrong declared, and so far, the only thing the neighborhood has gotten is a lot of dust and noise . . . until the potent wall of horse crap went up.

Now it appears Cal-Prop is ready to get busy on the wall.

County Supervisor Nick Esposito said the developer "is sure that happy

Buzzing beehive thrown into busy bar!

ill, last June when the front window shattered.

"On the floor was the beehive loaded with bees," said Herrera.

No one caught the culprit who dropped off the hive, but a passing motorist later pointed a finger at Charles Lucas, 41.

Police cops could serve Lucas ting time the next night and toppled more beehives through another window.

Lucas was arrested and charged with criminal damage to property. He denied the bee attack but a judge found him guilty, and sentenced him to eight months in jail. Lucas was also ordered to cough up $750 for property damage.

Bank bandit robs customer — because teller's too slow

A bank bandit got tired of waiting for a slowpoke teller to hand over the loot — and robbed a customer.

The gunman walked up to the teller at a branch of the First Bank National in Cleveland, Ohio, and told her to fill up a bag of money. When she took her time doing it, the resident robber took $62 in pocketfuls from a shopper and fled.

Three hours later, police arrested a man identified as 34-year-old Harry E. Smith and charged him with armed robbery.

Amazing discovery!

Mystery protein is linked to shortness

By HORACE JAMES

Researchers say a previously unknown protein may explain why the African Pygmy and other short people have stunted growth.

Most cases of substantial stature can be traced to a shortage of growth hormone, but that's not the case with Pygmies, according to an article in Discover magazine.

"Researchers now suspect the newly identified protein is actually a piece of growth-hormone receptor, a structure that protrudes from the surface of normal cells and snags the hormone as it circulates through the blood," according to the article. The eye-opening research was conducted by Gerhard Baumann, an endocrinologist at Northwestern Medical School.

Say goodbye to Amazon jungle

Experts predict total destruction of the Amazon jungle, home to thousands of plants and animals and a major source of the Earth's oxygen.

"I see no reason not to foresee an Amazon Basin that is totally deforested, populated from end to end and the scene of a whole host of environmental problems that would constitute a planetary disaster of historical dimensions," said Archie Carr, a U.S. field biologist.

Carr blamed the Brazilian government, which he said complained about efforts to protect its rain forest instead of cooperating to save the jungle, which is the world's largest wilderness.

Incredible new study!

Supermarket shopping helps you LIVE LONGER!

By SCOTTY PAUL
Correspondent

Regular visits to the produce section of a supermarket can make you feel better and help you live longer, says a noted psychologist.

"I call it the fresh scent syndrome," said Dr Francois Guilique, who has conducted research for 15 years to find relief for people who breathe polluted air in big cities.

"Spending 15 minutes twice a week enjoying the aroma of fruits and vegetables in a produce section has a calming effect that relieves stress and helps lower blood pressure," said Dr Guilique.

Guilique's conclusions resulted from a yearlong study of more than 250 people.

"There is conclusive evidence that people who live in the country suffer less stress, are more outgoing and have longer life spans," Dr Guilique told a newspaper which printed results of his study.

One of the reasons is the air they breathe. "Instead of smoky, polluted air, they breathe the fresh fragrances of oranges, melons, tomatoes and, yes, even garlic," said Dr. Guilique.

many city dwellers, who are forced to inhale air contaminated by chemicals, dirt and God knows what else.

The respected French doctor's research involved men and women of different ages.

"Half of the city dwellers spent at least 15 minutes twice a week for three months in the produce department of their favorite supermarket. The other half didn't," he said.

Dr Guilique knows quarterly sprays

The smell of the cabbages and the cantaloupes will relieve stress & keep you young, say researchers!

Forgotten lottery ticket worth $2.2M!

Newlyweds April and Kenneth Douglas are headed for the back of a honeymoon now that they found an old Lotto ticket worth a whopping $2.2 million!

Douglas, a salesman from Richmond, British Columbia, had purchased the winning ticket three months before and tossed it aside. A few weeks ments of green and mauve. Those who regularly sniffed the fruits and vegetables became more calm, collected and healthier than the others in the experiment, according to Dr Guilique.

Plant worker Jean Claude Lemoine is convinced the supermarket visits lowered his blood pressure and made him easier to get along with.

"I thought it was silly to think that stuffing cantaloupes, potatoes, onions and that other stuff could help relieve my stress," he said.

"But I quickly changed my mind after a few visits. My wife and kids say I'm a different man. I don't fly off the han-

"Taking part in the experiment was the only change in my life-style, so I have to believe it was instrumental in the change in me," he added.

Dr Guilique isn't sure why his theory works. "Perhaps it's psychosomatic. It will take further research."

The doctor began his research soon after he and his wife spent a day biking and picnicking in the countryside outside of Bordeaux.

"I found the air was stimulating and calming," said Dr. Guilique. "Two days later, I was browsing around the supermarket's produce department and found the same scent of freshness."

You can bounce back from a broken heart . . . top doc tells how

You can overcome a broken heart from a shattered marriage or love affair — even though you may feel that you'll never recover, says an expert.

Behavioral scientist Dr Stephen Gullo, who's studied the subject extensively, says the help of a love can relieve the heavy emotional that he or she can't function.

"The person may suddenly [illegible] around, want to stay in bed all day and be unable to do anything," he notes.

But victims can mend their hearts by heeding the following advice from Dr. Gullo.

1. Openly accept that the love is over.

"Go ahead and experience the pain. Grieve, let yourself cry. Don't bite your lip and hold it all in. Those who suppress grief always take longer to get over it," says Dr Gullo.

"Talk about the person you lost. That expressed need to talk about a lost love is a very good way to get it out. And by constantly talking about it, you're verifying for yourself that it's over."

2. Try to redress the other stressors in your life.

"This is not a good time to throw a dinner party for 30 guests or decide to redecorate your house. All of your resources should be used to heal yourself."

3. Do not withdraw from love.

"When people get hurt in love, they have a tendency to [illegible] so they won't get hurt again. But love requires the courage to open yourself up to another person.

"Believe that there is someone else out there for you — and have the courage to go out and look for them.

"Remember, too, that we tend to idealize the lost person. Our memories block out the painful and preserve the positive. The chances are excellent that the person wasn't as perfect as you think.

"You also should analyze what was right and wrong with the relationship so you don't make the same mistake again, added Dr Gullo. Suppose for example, that your marriage ended in divorce because you wanted children and your spouse didn't. If you fall in love and marry the same type person again, the relationship is doomed from the start.

Cab driver wanted to put some iron in his diet

Man dies after eating nails!

A doctor told Tony White more iron in his diet would improve his cab driver, so he nailed down nails, a drill bit and a screwdriver — and died in agony.

The astonished cab driver complained later in the waiting pit, where minutes after his meal he was rushed to a hospital in Gainesville, Fla., and died.

The shocked medical staff was trying all its skills to stomach and other vital organs, said Dr. Malcolm Jones. He explained an autopsy is pending to be done.

While a spokesman had not been able to find out how to get more details, he said, "It's very sad."

A friend of Tony's, Mark [illegible] said Tony White had gone to a restaurant and had a meal with a friend. He said he had to get more nails to finish the job.

Drinking dads can harm babies, too

Men who are planning to become fathers should lay off the booze — it could seriously harm their offspring.

A recent study at Washington University's school of medicine linked learning and behavior abnormalities in the offspring of hard-drinking male rats that were mated to teetotaling female rats . . . even though the males had been sober for two weeks.

The males had been kept sheltered for 30 days before going on the warpath, researchers Theodore Chapin and David Woznick reported in a recent issue of Scientific American.

They said the results of their study corresponded to findings concerning the children of human alcoholic dads.

Your ticket to good luck, happiness, health & $$$

Emmy-winning TV angel Michael Landon and children Victor French brought happiness to millions of believers on the popular television show Highway to Heaven.

Everyone has a guardian angel

. . . and here's how you can make yours work for you!

By ELLEN SANDERS

You really DO have a guardian angel — and you can use its power to bring you love, happiness, health and wealth, a leading theologist says.

All you need to do to begin how to contact your heavenly guardian and enlist its help, according to Dr. Carl Lander of the Institute of Christian Research in Stockholm, Sweden.

In today's stressful times most people haven't taken the time to contact their guardian angels. But people can get these guardians back to ordinary duty if they just lie calmly down and listening to their inner promptings from above.

Dr. Lander published an impressive study involving hundreds of people and their contacts with guardian angels. His work indicates that most successful people are in regular communication with their angels and people who describe their lives as happy are also 80 per cent more likely to have contact with their angels.

They don't always describe these contacts as communication with an angel, but that's what it is," Dr. Lander said in a news conference announcing the latest book, The Angel Book: How People from All the Ages of History Have Communicated with Their Guardian Angels.

Dr. Lander, a theologian and author of two books on angels and their visible signs, said he began "feeling a need to help people in their lives by learning to contact their guardian angels."

Dr. Lander advises a week long "cool out" before attempting to make a heavenly guardian. During this period, reduce activities as much as possible and try to spend time alone relaxing.

After the week of calm, follow these steps to make contact with your guardian angel:

● Say a prayer, asking God — or whatever supreme power you believe in — to send your guardian angel to help you.

● Ask your angel to help you with specific problems you're facing.

● Keep a notebook handy to record your thoughts and feelings during meditation or prayer. Remember that your guardian angel will speak to you this way to impress things or messages in your mind.

● Have the confidence to follow your impulses. You'll find in time you'll be led where you will lead you in the right path because then really come from your guardian angel.

● Stay receptive. Your guardian angel will stay with you and watch over you if you just let it.

● Expect your angel and really believe that it is going to come to you. Your guardian angels can take many forms to you. They've actually been known to appear to people as animals and insects to get their messages across.

● Don't close attention to the strangers you meet and talk to. Believe it or not, they may be your guardian angel.

● The best time to consult your guardian angel for an enlightening conversation or picture is late at night, just before you go to bed. Clear your head of negative thoughts and images and just let the angel come to you.

● Don't treat your guardian angel with irreverence. Its advice or wish to help the angel will be more frustrated — and leave you to your own pitiful devices.

Easy-to-follow advice from experts . . .

Supercharged tips for great-looking skin!

You can keep your skin healthy and looking its best with expert advice from the American Medical Association (AMA).

"Skin care is a never-ending problem because the skin is the common boundary between the person and the external environment. It's subjected to all the changes of wind, humidity, temperature, pollution, bacteria, sunscreens and many other things," said Dr. Marvin E. Chernosky.

Here — from the AMA Book of Skin and Hair Care — is important skin-care advice from the AMA's top experts, including Dr. Chernosky.

Aging. Most changes in the skin that we associate with aging — excessive dryness, wrinkling and age spots — are due to ultraviolet rays of sunlight.

Age spots can be minimized if you avoid overdoing sun exposure, use sunscreens with a protective factor of 15 or greater and wear protective clothing, including a wide-brimmed hat.

Dry Skin: Moisturizing the air in your home helps restore your skin's softness.

To combat dry skin, take shorter, cooler baths. Use bath oil. And avoid extremely hot bath water. Moisturize arms and legs daily with creams or lotions.

Oily Skin: Most cases are adequately controlled with soap and water cleansing, three or four times a day. An astringent cleansing pad can be used.

Combination Complexions: Lightly apply a moisturizing cream once or twice a day to the very dry areas of your face. And decrease oiliness by washing these areas with a medicated drying soap two or three times a day. Use an astringent on these areas if they're still oily.

Best Way to Cleanse the Skin: Avoid using very hot water and scrubbing with strong soaps.

Don't massage soap into your skin. Don't use medicated soaps unless advised by your physician, rather than all forms of soap.

Chapped Skin: Use an ointment or petrolatum and baths in warm — not hot — water, adding a capful of oil. While your skin is still wet, apply a thin film of lotion, unmedicated cream or lotion, then towel-dry.

Blackheads: Wash often with soap and water. And during the day, remove excess oil with an astringent.

Avoid steam and oily cosmetics.

Acne Blemishes. With proper treatment by a physician, you can control or eliminate acne and lessen the likelihood of pitting and scarring.

Teen victim's ghost haunted his dreams . . .

DYING MAN CONFESSES TO HIT-AND-RUN KILLING

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

Desperate to go to his grave in peace, a dying man revealed the awful sin that had haunted his dreams for almost a decade — "I was the hit-and-run driver who killed a 14-year-old girl in 1981."

Dying of pneumonia and emphysema, 64-year-old retired contractor John Rose confessed that he is the mystery man cops have been searching for in the hit-and-run death of five-foot-two schoolgirl Claudia Chatman.

Claudia's broken body was found lying on the side of a highway in West Goshen, Pa. Despite an intensive investigation, the death car driver's identity remained unknown . . . until Rose euthanized cops to his bedside.

"I'm glad I've had my say."

. . . so he can rest in peace!

Rose said in a tired-blown, raspy voice. "I don't care what the police do. I had to tell about it."

Rose said he was outside a [illegible] daughter shop in West Chester when the eighth-grader asked him to give her a ride home.

"I was feeling pretty good [illegible] from the hospital bed. "I had stopped some place. I said I would take her home."

Rose said as he drove he saw Claudia begin talking excitedly with marijuana in her hand in a plastic bag on the front seat.

He said she asked to buy some of the vegetation, but he refused.

"The next thing I knew she had the car door open and had jumped out with the marijuana," he said. "I saw her running, and I stopped and shut the door."

He said the car was moving at about 25 m.p.h. when Claudia jumped out and that he tried to follow her as she disappeared down the dark highway.

"There I felt a bump," he remembered. "I saw something [illegible] I don't say what . . . because all my readers and hear I got out to look, but didn't see any thing."

Rose said he drove away and read later about Claudia's death. He said he was afraid to tell police about the accident because of the marijuana.

West Goshen Police Chief Michael Carroll said Rose will not be criminally charged in Claudia's death, but added that the dead girl's family is considering a civil suit.

"We won't charge him because of my state's two-year statute of limitations," Carroll told The NEWS. "The time period has elapsed when we could have filed the charge, which would have been reckless [illegible] homicide.

"But we are cooperating with the victim's family and their attorney in every way possible."

That's of little comfort to John Rose, who has finally relieved the dark secret that has made his life a living hell for almost 10 years.

"I had to tell what happened," he said. "I would wake up at night and have a scared feeling.

"I'm glad I've had my say. I just started to sleep dreaming about it."

Moo-ving tribute!

By TONY WINTER

Frank Serraglio couldn't bear to part with his pet cow after she crumped so he shelled out $10,000 to have her stuffed and mounted on a dolly.

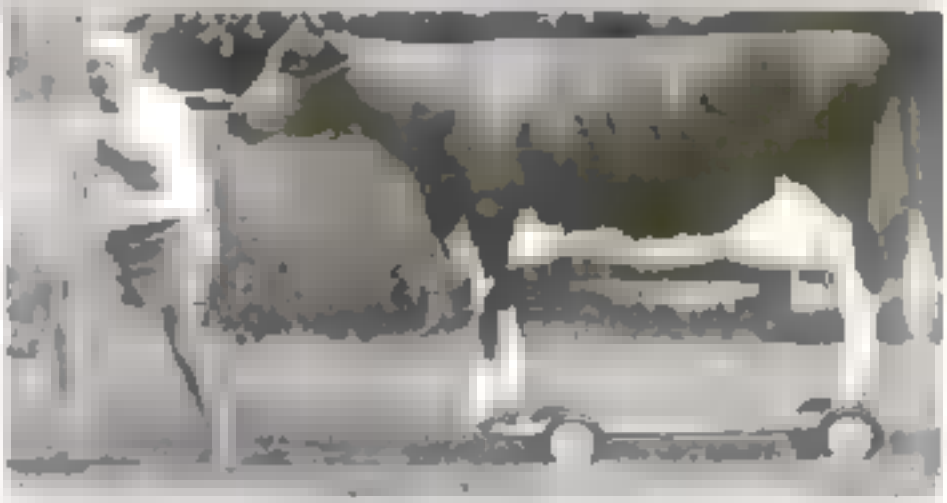
And because she's an attraction, he can take her wherever he goes.

"It's the next best thing to having Felicity here with me," said the 85-year-old dairy farmer from Melbourne, Australia. "That old cow was all a million. She was sweet and smart as a whip.

"People say that I'm crazy to have spent so much money to have her stuffed but if she had been your cow, you would have spent the money, too."

Serraglio bought the cow in 1966 and as the years passed they became inseparable.

The farmer actually took the cow pillow in the back of a truck. He also gave her the run of his house, including a large [illegible] and color television.



WACKY: Frank Serraglio had Felicity stuffed and mounted so he can take her wherever he goes.

Farmer spends $10G to stuff cow

"Felicity loved music and watching the tube. It was almost impossible to drag her away from the television," he said.

For hours and when something funny happened, she'd moo.

[illegible] has stuffed and mounted has helped ease the pain.

"She looks so lifelike I catch myself talking to her," said Serraglio. "There will never be another cow like her."

Beefy burglar does striptease for victims

A brazen female burglar apologizes to the shocked homeowners who catch her in the act — then does a striptease.

"She tried to embarrass people . . . throw them off guard so she can make her getaway," said Naples, Fla., Police Captain Paul Streck.

The full-figured, dark-haired woman has burglarized at least 15 homes in Sarasota and Collier counties, many of them in the daytime when the victims are there.

By JACK ALEXANDER

If she's confronted by her victims, she quickly says or does something to startle and confuse them, including taking off her clothes, said Capt. Streck.

"So far, she has been caught in the act a half-dozen times but has managed to escape," he said.

Frank Cargill caught her in the bedroom of his Venice home about noon one day. The quick-thinking resort hotel owner, 56, that she was looking for her dog.

When Cargill said he hadn't seen her dog, the woman thanked him and left. "She was as calm as she could be," said Cargill.

The old man and his wife, [illegible] $100 gold watch, a $150 gold wedding band, a $495 gold chain, a $995 diamond pendant and a $5,000 diamond ring missing from the bedroom.

"We're very upset with our selves," said Cargill. "But we could have been hurt if we tried to stop her."

At least three homeowners

. . . then she streaks away from bug-eyed homeowners

They've also seen her run out of the house half-naked and jump in a Cadillac driven by a man.

Cops have labeled her the "Gypsy Burglar" after one of the best-known strippers of all time, Gypsy Rose Lee. The bandit has been identified by cops as an arrest warrant as Kasia Rybicka, 32, who weighs 175 pounds and is 5-foot-7.

"Ex-Truck Driver Gets $21,108 a Month Doing What You Aren't"

By Neville St. Lewis - Special Feature Writer

Orlando, FL — "In only 6 months I went [illegible] Lewis. Tabak began a few years ago with humble beginnings as a small group. But the cash didn't start to roll in until he discovered the little-known money making secret.

"Now, as a real boss, Tabak has begun to train everyday people, like himself, how to duplicate his success.

Accepts the results have been astounding. For example, one person in St. Augustine wrote that they had made $8,700 in an unbelievable 9 days!

"Things happen that you'll be eager, ready, I have described as amazing wealth-makers."

"But we program step-by-step," he says, "and we are talented driving your sparkling limousines, BMWs, or Cadillac. We dazzle your friends with your new dream home. And people see you radiating like a champion."

"You can really be the kind of person that you always wanted to be."

And what's more," he adds, "he makes an extra $ MORE my way, requires little effort."

"Look, there's no magic wand and [illegible] you're not home-after time and work. But it's worth it. In fact," he adds, "I really want people who are willing to put forth some effort in what I'll."

Now, you may not make as much as Tabak, but if you are a real "Go Getter," you will make more. And above all, the nice part is that you will the respect of your friends and family.

Randy Savage's wife in tears over The Other Woman

Miss Elizabeth loses Macho Man to Sensational Queen Sherri

By BERNIE BASHER
Wrestling Correspondent

Miss Elizabeth, the former manager of the Macho King, Randy Savage, is in tears as she watches her man spend more and more time with his new female manager, Sensational Queen Sherri!

Miss Elizabeth has a real reason to be worried. She isn't just the woman who guided Savage's career straight to the top of the wrestling world — she's also his wife!

"I don't know when this nightmare will end," the lovely Elizabeth said between sobs from her home in Sarasota, Fla. "I just hope Randy comes to his senses soon."

The bizarre Randy-Elizabeth-Sherri love triangle all started two years ago when Savage joined forces with Hulk Hogan and formed the awesome tag team known as The Mega Powers. Elizabeth became their manager. But then the Macho King and the Hulkster had a falling out and Savage turned bad, into a bad guy. Insanely jealous, Randy ordered his wife to choose between him and Hogan.

"I still love Randy and always will," Elizabeth said. "Women's lib here didn't like it when Randy pushed me around at ringside but I understood him and I knew he would never harm me.

"But I have my principles, too. The Hulkster treated me with respect and I decided to keep managing him. But when Randy started spending so much time with Sherri, I was devastated."

At WrestleMania VI in Toronto, the Macho King and Sherri will take on Rudy Rhodes and his manager, Sapphire, in the WWF's first-ever mixed male-female tag-team match.

Asked to comment on his tangled relationship with Sherri and Elizabeth, Savage sneered and said, "One is too hot to handle and the other is too cool to hold!"

WRESTLING star Randy Savage will team up with Sherri in the WWF's first mixed-male tag-team match.

"Lizzie or Sherri" probably would have done the job. But while Rhodes was preparing to deliver the coup de grace, his opponent slipped behind him and seized the pinfall.

Adrenal, putting up for his members with The Big Boss Man, commented the cardinal sin when he laughed with Rusty Rhodes on New York City — he forgot to listen to the referee. The African Dream and the American Dream threw the rulebook out the window and spent as much time brawling outside the Madison Square Garden ring as inside it. Rusty survived several of the 400-pound Adrenal's giant splashes and countered with his own powerful blows. In the end, the two were pounding away at each other on the canvas floor but Rhodes perked up the ref's count at "9" and rolled back into the ring in the dark of time — nailing Adrenal the loser by countout.

Bad News Brown and The Hulkster tangled in Winnipeg, and the latter Brown came out on top over the fiery Mexican. Santana held the upper hand most of the way and had the vertical crowd shouting "yeh ho!" at his dazzling aerial moves. But Bad News wouldn't be denied, and he blasted Tito for a loss with a vicious "ghetto blaster" kick to the head.

Veteran Brut "The Hit Man" Hart and Greg "The Hammer" Valentine went to a draw in Philadelphia. Aided by his manager Jimmy Hart, Valentine used every devious weapon at his disposal, but he could never get the Hit Man into a figure-four leglock.

FANS MAIL BAG

My favorite wrestler is Rusty Rhodes. Can you tell me where he is? — Jeanne Richard, Florence, Ala.

Windham is back on the WWF under the name of "The Widow Maker." He recently had to take some time off to help his father, Blackjack Mulligan, and his brother, Kendall Windham, who were arrested and charged with being part of a counterfeit money ring in Florida. But Barry should be returning to the ring more any week now.

My co-worker and I have a bet. He says Hulk Hogan is over 50 years old. I say no. Who won? — Bob Vollmerhaus Jr., Covington, Ky.

You won, Bob. The Hulkster was born in 1953.

If you want to get in the last word in the latest battle in the world of wrestling, write to Bernie Basher, Wrestling Correspondent, 900 South East Coast Avenue, Lantana, Fla. 33462. The best questions will be printed in the column. Unfortunately, the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

SORROWFUL Miss Elizabeth is devastated because Randy is spending more and more time lately with Queen Sherri, inset.

WHATTA LEMON!

Commie car is rolling time bomb

By LEMMIE JOHN

East Germany's Trabant automobile is so unreliable and dangerous that the owner's manual actually tells motorists "to get out and run" if the engine makes a funny noise!

And that's just all. Ever since the Berlin Wall crumbled — allowing East Germans to travel freely in the West — automotive experts have been studying the cars and found that they:

● Fall apart. The fenders, headlights and bumpers literally popped off one of the flimsy autocrapments during a single 38-mile run!

● Overheat. A pair of Trabants had to be stopped and allowed to cool 122 times during a 1,600-mile road test. Antifreeze coolant was boiling out of the radiators.

● Break prematurely. At all. Analysts say that at any given time only one of the car's four brakes work.

In real weather the braking system tends to fail entirely — stopping the car only two of five times the brake pedal is pushed.

● Catch fire. The Trabant's ancient fuel system must be disassembled and cleaned every 50 miles. If not, the car's engine begins to sputter and shimmy — then burns into flames.

● Blow up. Shortages of screws, bolts and gaskets apparently don't faze East German auto workers. The workers just substitute whatever parts they have on hand because they don't understand modern cars.

● Inevitably collapse the engine mounts. The Trabant was designed in 1957 and hasn't changed one bit since. Its ugly two-stroke engine burns a mixture of oil and gas. They smoke like coal burning power plants — even when new!

"The Trabant isn't a car — it's a time bomb," said Heinrich Klein, who oversaw testing of the Trabant for Automotive Research Institute in Frankfurt, West Germany.

"Before the Berlin Wall crumbled we didn't know much about them. Now that we do, we're appalled. These things shouldn't be allowed on the highway."

A Trabant spokesman personally conceded that "Western cars are much more modern and efficient," but insisted that the Trabant's performance "is more than adequate for the East German people."

HAUNTED! Trabant's owner's manual tells motorists "to get out and run" if the engine makes a funny noise.

Shop till you drop!

On an average day, folks spend an incredible $1.8 billion dollars in shopping malls, according to the International Council of Shopping Centers.

Preacher performs wedding ceremony for his mom & [illegible]

It was a dream come true for the Rev. Rodney Pearad when he performed a recent wedding ceremony — for his mom and dad.

Mildred Cox and Andy Pearad decided to tie their love knot again after 13 years of marriage ended in divorce in 1988.

During their 11 years apart, Mildred and Andy remained friends for the sake of their four children.

Mildred married again but it lasted only three months. "I found out he didn't work and I discovered a lot of things I didn't know before we were married and I ran him off," she said.

Andy, 64, was married and divorced two more times. "We just had problems, and they just didn't go right," he said.

Andy moved back to Flint,

By JAKE ALEXANDER

Mich., a year ago and rented a room at Mildred's house. Eventually he asked her to remarry him.

Marrying your ex-wife and dad "is a unique experience," said Rev. Pearad. "It's an experience I've looked forward to for years."

"It's a kid's dream come true," said his brother, David. "Every child wants his parents to come back together."

Another brother, Jack, said dad already had a "secret dream" for his parents to remarry. "They've always been friends. They did not have a hostile divorce," he said.

Mildred and Andy plan to do anything they want, which will include travel and spending time together.

"We've been separated and divorced but we decided to get back together because we love one another," said Andy. "We both realize our mistakes."

There's one advantage being

PROUD PREACHER Rodney Pearad, right, witnesses the wedding ceremony with his mother, Mildred Cox, and his father, Andy Pearad.

GIANT HOROSCOPE

For week of
Mon., Mar. 1-Sun., Mar. 7

By Countess Sophia Sabah

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Your natural vanity has you leaping to conclusions that could drive a wedge between you and a loved one this week.

Give them them to you the benefit of the doubt when controversy arises.

Trust your head won't backtrack and your heart will soar.

Someone in authority admires your style.

Keep up the good work.

An exciting opportunity is coming your way.

A small child will bring you luck.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Family members are sure to be receptive if you don't rock your irrelevance to be heavy. Compromise to avoid energy-draining squabbles — but not too much because you're usually right!

This is an excellent time to rekindle new friends.

An especially young and attractive person may surprise you with their insight into what makes you tick.

True friends show themselves for what they are

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Honesty and wisdom are some of your strengths. Both may be tested this week by a friend or relative.

Give them all the help you can. They'll pay you back soon.

A dream holds the key to romantic adventure — but look before you leap.

Hang onto that piece of junk you've been planning to dump. It could be worth a bundle, perhaps even enough for a vet dent payment!

Now is the time to hold on to the gains made through hard work.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

The signs of financial change are in motion and you should be back to things shape within the next few days.

Rely on the advice of experts still your own common sense.

All signs indicate that now is the time to tackle an important project you have been postponing for too long.

Someone close to you is suffering in silence and looking for a shoulder to cry on. Be a sympathetic listener.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Take a realistic approach to love. You can sweep the hot-and-for-heather style of living.

Your loved one is ready to settle down and you should, too. You won't regret it!

Forget your financial worries. The going may be rough for a while, but you'll be out of the woods in a few weeks.

A letter or phone call from a long lost pal brings pleasant memories flooding back to you. Follow up on this old friendship.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

All signs indicate that now is the time to take the initiative to resolve a long-standing family dispute.

Make the first move and don't be afraid to compromise. Others will rebound your courage.

There could be a refreshing new love interest in your life. Don't be surprised if you're swept off your feet.

Your tendency toward friendliness with strangers could open the door to a terrific opportunity in the very near future

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

A run of good fortune can bring you great happiness if you guard against taking it for granted.

Keep your eyes peeled for lost valuables.

Enter all the contests and sweepstakes you can!

Be prepared for major domestic changes. A new home in another town is entirely possible. Get ready for a new life style.

Family members could use some of your good advice and support. Give with both hands.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Several people will offer the same advice to you this week. Do as they say and your life will progress with amazing speed. Time to examine.

Your past generosity to an old pal pays off with a surprise paycheck this week. You're proved the pal loyalty and devotion.

Expect a major surprise from your parents this week.

A relative is the most important close you realize, and has wonderful plans for your future.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Someone is longing for you in this issue of your, suspicion who will have you from many years ago. You may receive a telephone call asking for a meeting.

A close friend or relative may ask you to bail them out of a financial crisis. They may need more than money. Give generously of your time and as much cash as you can spare.

One of your strong points is a great imagination, but you haven't been using this asset. It's high time you used this talent.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Your attitude toward life will change for the better in the near future.

In fact, you can look forward to some good fortune.

An old acquaintance praises you unexpectedly for your patience and sensitivity.

Take the first step to renew ties with distant relatives.

Romantically this is going to be a banner week and if you're not head over heels in love right now, don't fret — you soon will be!

If your birthday is this week . . .

Fantastic times are in store for you this year.

And for single folks born this week, romance should be part of the next year, too.

All signs point to a quiet and tranquil year ahead.

And problems will resolve themselves happily and loved ones will prosper.

Outside forces will put pressure on you, but after a few stumbles you'll learn to handle the stress just fine.

You can look forward to a big bonus from someone who has power over your future.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Everything is coming up roses for you this week.

A stranger makes a decision that will, in time, bring you financial security.

Listen carefully to any proposal, no matter how wacky it sounds at first.

Wonderful is the word for your love life, if you play your cards right. Your partner is just waiting for you to make a move.

Something small and gray should bring you number. Watch for it.

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Unexpected and exciting events will begin to unfold this week and it's no time to be wishy-washy about any course of action you may want to take.

If you see someone who excites you, make your move!

Spend more time watching TV this week. Then spend time with charms.

Your companion will have relatives looking to you for help. Give freely of yourself.

Midweek is likely to bring [redacted] about money, and it's time to commit yourself to big spending.

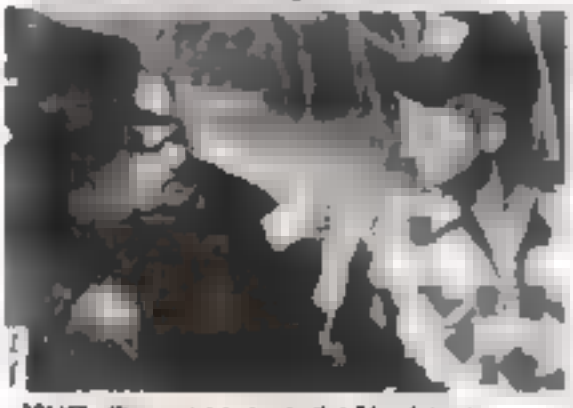
Modern-day Bonnie & Clyde nabbed

'They [illegible]ry bit as wild and crazy' as 1930s outlaws

SUSPECT Ellen Marks is caught in Milford, Conn.



POLICE officers point to handcuffed Edward Arango.

A daring, hard-drinking couple suspected of pulling 34 robberies in five states has finally been captured after eluding cops for six weeks.

By JACK ALEXANDER

Known as the Bonnie and Clyde bandits, Edward Arango and Ellen Marks were surrounded by police as they tried to escape after a holdup in Milford, Conn.

"They weren't as bloodthirsty as the Barrow and Clyde of the 30s, but they were every bit as wild and crazy," said Police Captain Thomas Cobb.

They robbed small "mom and pop" stores while wearing disguises and tied up their victims with nylon mesh cord, cops said.

"We were amazed at their reckless and brazen behavior," said Capt. Cobb. "Either they were high or they didn't care. I don't think they are stupid."

Arango, 46, and Ellen Marks, 50, are suspected of robbing stores in Massachusetts, New York, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

They didn't bother to wear masks, said Capt. Cobb. "They are suspected of robbing different stores in the same neighborhood the same day," he added.

They were captured when the elderly owner of a shoe store in Milford resisted a robbery attempt. He fought with them and then they left, said Capt. Cobb.

The middle-age couple met at an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting in Framingham, Mass., and are well known in some of the bars there.

"Obviously the AA meetings didn't help them," said Capt. Cobb.

"From what we heard, they spent most of their waking hours in bars."

You can help brave girl in her battle for life

. . . your cards will put sunshine in her life

By CINDY O'NEIL

Blonde-haired Brianne Benoit is one sick little girl — but cards and letters from NEWS readers would put some sunshine in her life.

Born with heart disease, Brianne had her first surgery when she was only 12 days old. At 5 she went under the knife for the second time. But even after the surgeries, 7-year-old Brianne is still suffering from shortness of breath and her failing heart leaves her tired and weak.

The spunky little girl is currently undergoing tests at the Boston Children's Hospital and praying for a heart transplant to save her life.

"Brianne is a special child to her and pen pals to read," said her grandmother Mary Benoit. "Cards from NEWS readers would really make her feel better."

The pretty child also loves stuffed animals and bright and colorful stickers.

"Two years ago, Brianne's family moved to Florida for her health.

"The Children's Transplantation Fund of Upstate Fla. has just been great helping the family with medical expenses, but cards would be such a blessing to my little granddaughter.

"She's been through so much already, but she still smiles all the time.

Caring NEWS readers can help to keep that smile on Brianne's angelic face. Send your cards and letters to:

ALL IS VANITY

Sex-swap gal vows from the campaign trail:

I'm gonna be mayor!

By [redacted] JAMISON
Staff writer

Transsexual Terri Fohrman is running for mayor — and it looks like her oddball campaign is going to succeed.

The six-foot blonde she-male is clawing her way to the top job in city government by wooing elderly veterans in Yountville, Calif., where the oldsters form half the voting population.

She has outraged the opposition by flouncing through the local veterans' home dressed in sexy costumes and low-cut sequined gowns.

She buys the old guys drinks and listens to their war stories and she's captured the hearts — and the votes — of the facility's 1,100 residents.

"The conduct she is putting on for someone running for mayor of a town is unbelievable," said Richard Kessler, 68, a disapproving citizen of Yountville, pop. 3,308.

"She's trying to woo the vets' home for votes. To me, she is nothing but a burlesque queen. A lot of these old, senile vets are taken in by her."

Towering Terri — who measures 6-2-40 — often made her living as a female impersonator in Las Vegas. But she insists she's dead serious about getting the top job in Yountville and that when she does she's going to improve the lot of veterans.

"Right now people in this town shun the vets," said Terri, who quit impersonating women and became the real thing in 1972. "I want to unite the town.

"I want to get the vets involved in town activities, get them to council meetings and things like that.

"I'm serious about this. I'm going to be mayor and these people are scared. They think I'll open a bunch of massage parlors and adult bookstores, but that's not me."

In fact, Terri promises a pretty convincing list of town improvements if she's elected on April 10. She wants to get better transportation for the little Napa Valley town, encourage the establishment of affordable safe entertainment spots, and plan the town's development.

Her campaign slogan is "The Change Will Do You Good." And she believes that whatever her method of vote-getting, if she pleases the voters she deserves to win.

"I've been friends with the vets since I came here," said the struggling sex-swap candidate, a Yountville resident for two years. "I sit and listen to them. I'm interested in them.

"I entertain them at the home. I go there to entertain on Christmas and Valentine's Day. I make them smile. If I get votes by caring, that's O.K. Someone ought to care about these people — they served for our country, they served for us."

WINNING smile has made Terri a favorite among the 1,100 vets — and voters — in the local veterans' home.

And chances are — she will!

Fanatical death squads are

CHILDREN AND SHOT

Their only crime is being poor — in a tourists' paradise

By DICK DONOVAN
Daily mirror

Bloodthirsty police death squads in Brazil are making the sun-splashed avenues of Rio nicer for rich jet-set tourists — by slaughtering hundreds of innocent street urchins with machine guns!

The fiendish squads roam the streets of the glittering playground city to hunt down and round up poor and half-starved children forced to beg in the streets for money to buy food.

Then the pitiful waifs are dragged into a secluded alley where they are gunned down like rats by brutal cops determined to make their tropical paradise more appealing to free-spending tourists.

ACCUSED: Sinister death squad boss Jose Alberto Laga.

The dead ragamuffins are then buried in an empty lot on the city's outskirts where they vanish into graves marked only by numbered white crosses. Their parents — if they have any — are not told of the child's ghastly fate.

The slaughter is Rio's way of protecting the rich tourists who flock to the beaches of Copacabana and Ipanema from the hundreds of ragged little beggars who accost them with grimy palms outstretched for a few paltry pennies.

A kingpin in Rio's "Esquadroes da Morte" (Squads of Death) is Jose Alberto Lage, a peacock of a cop who struts around in crisp, white designer suits and a Rolex watch.

He has his own special way of dealing with the 700,000 homeless children in his city.

"Last year, Lage pulled a gun on a beggar woman and her son," recalled Tiana Senio Re, a member of Brazil's National Movement for Street Children.

"He told the woman he was going to kill the boy for sleeping outside his home. The mother went down on her knees weeping and pleading with him.

"Eventually, Lage said he liked the way she begged for mercy and put his gun away."

Members of the National Movement met recently with Lage to discuss humane ways of handling the problem of street beggars. But he turned deaf ears to their pleas.

"He said there is nothing to discuss," Mrs. Re said. "He said the only way to beat crime in Rio is to kill the children."

And Lage and his murderous goons are doing just that, as 13-year-old beggar boy Cesar Augusto Silveira has been firsthand.

"I had a friend who was shot by Esquadrao men," he said.

"He was only 10, but they said he was a thief and a drug dealer. It's true he did steal, but only because he was starving. They put a bullet through his head. His mother found him lying in a garbage dump."

Accusations against Lage date back to 1982 when an investigation into his heavy-handed methods was launched.

But Lage remains unpunished and is free to carry out his evil scheme.

In the meantime, the rows of murdered white crosses grow longer and longer over
